

Talent Transformation (2019)

Home ► My courses ► Talent Transformation ► ttc2019_2 ► TCS ONLINE TEST - 2018 ► SET - 15 (English) - (1/3 mark is deducted for every wrong answer)

Started on Wednesday, 22 August 2018, 10:28 PM

State Finished

Completed on Wednesday, 22 August 2018, 10:32 PM

Time taken 3 mins 39 secs

Grade 1.35 out of 10.00 (14%)

Question 1

Partially correct

Mark 1.35 out of 10.00

Flag question

For months the great pleased ✖ excursion to Europe and the Holy Land was chatted about in the newspapers everywhere in America and discussed ✔ at countless firesides. It was a novelty in the way of excursions, and it compelled that interest which attractive novelties always command. It was to be a picnic on a scale ✖.

The participants in it, instead of freighting an ungainly steam ferry-boat with youth and beauty and pies and doughnuts, and paddling up some creek ✖ to disembark upon a grassy lawn and weary ✖ themselves out with a long summer day's laborious frolicking under the impression that it was fun, were to sail away in a great steamship with flags flying and cannon pealing, and take a royal holiday beyond the broad ocean in many a strange clime and in many a land renowned for ✖ history! They were to sail for months over ✔ the breezy Atlantic and the sunny Mediterranean. They were to scamper about the decks by day, filling the ship with shouts and laughs ✖, or watch for the jelly-fish over the side, and the shark, the whale, and other strange monsters of the deep; and at night they were to dance in the open air, on the upper deck. It was a brave conception; it was the offspring of a most ingenious ✔ brain. It was well advertised, but it often ✖ needed it: the bold originality, the extraordinary character, the seductive nature, and the vastness of the enterprise provoked comment everywhere and advertised it in every household in the land.

For months the great pleasure excursion to Europe and the Holy Land was chatted about in the newspapers everywhere in America and discussed at countless firesides. It was a novelty in the way of excursions, and it compelled that interest which attractive novelties always command. It was to be a picnic on a gigantic scale.

The participants in it, instead of freighting an ungainly steam ferry-boat with youth and beauty and pies and doughnuts, and paddling up some obscure creek to disembark upon a grassy lawn and wear themselves out with a long summer day's laborious frolicking under the impression that it was fun, were to sail away in a great steamship with flags flying and cannon pealing, and take a royal holiday beyond the broad ocean in many a strange clime and in many a land renowned in history! They were to sail for months over the breezy Atlantic and the sunny Mediterranean. They were to scamper about the decks by day, filling the ship with shouts and laughter, or watch for the jelly-fish over the side, and the shark, the whale, and other strange monsters of the deep; and at night they were to dance in the open air, on the upper deck.

It was a brave conception; it was the offspring of a most ingenious brain. It was well advertised, but it hardly needed it: the bold originality, the extraordinary character, the seductive nature, and the vastness of the enterprise provoked comment everywhere and advertised it in every household in the land.

Finish review

QUIZ NAVIGATION

1

Finish review